

I strongly support stricter legislation and or regulations that would further limit the number of broadcast outlets that any one company can own. As a result of deregulation, our airwaves have become bland, repetitive and nearly void of any variety or local flavor. The best interests of the consumer are not being served by any stretch of the imagination. Significant change is in order.